WE NOMINATE

Courtland Davis Perkins, 47-year old Princetonian, whose contributions to the startling forward sweep of the aeronautical sciences will be recognized early next week in Washington with his "swearing in" as Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for Research and Development. Nominated last February by President Eisenhower and recently approved by the Senate for this pivotal post, the Philadelphia-born Perkins succeeds a former associate in Princeton University's Department of Aeronautical Engineering, Joseph Charyk, now Undersecretary of the Air Force.

One of the promising young scientists called to Princeton shortly after World War II by the late Daniel Clemens Sayre, as the latter "placed in orbit" his then struggling three-year old program of aeronautical engineering and proceeded to lay the groundwork for the University's acquisition of the James Forrestal Research Center, Perkins succeeded Sayre as departmental chairman in 1951. In the intervening decade, with time-out for a year (1956-57) as Chief Scientist of the U. S. Air Force, Perkins has been a driving-force in the development of a program of study and research which has won international attention.

It was this past fall that Perkins' department, to the chagrin of napping Princeton newspapermen and publicists, dramatically documented the quality of its basic research. At a Princeton-sponsored conference on "Ground Effect Phenomena" Princeton scientists unveiled their Air Scooter, a cumbersome, bicycle-like contraption that rides a cushion of air inches above the ground at a scant ten miles per hour. What sent conference observers scurrying back to their drawing-boards was the lifting capacity of the Scooter which, with a 5-horsepower, chain-saw engine, lifted 15 times the load hoisted by a helicopter of the same power.

In the same way he encouraged his associates to carry forward their investigations of ground effect phenomena, (that some day could be combined with the conventional wing to permit planes to hover on take-off and landing), Perkins has been concerned with basic research ever since he abandoned ground-based industry to complete his scientific training at M.I.T. As a Senior Aeronautical Engineer in the Air Materiel Command of the U.S.A.F. during American de-III, he was in close touch with major American developments in military aviation and helped establish scientific methods for quantitatively evaluating the handling qualities of wartime aircraft.

Formerly consultant to the Weapons System Evaluation Group operating under this country's Joint Chiefs of Staff, and more recently editor of a series of international research publications for the NATO-sponsored Advisory Group for Aeronautical Research and Development, he has also been closely linked with the advisory boards of pace-setting firms in the aircraft industry. A licensed pilot, and an honors graduate of Swarthmore, he is possibly the only Princeton scientist-teacher who has been able to claim high-level affiliation with both the Borough and Township Boards of Education—through his wife in the Borough and his brother, Vice-President of the Carnegie Corporation of New York, in the Township.

For meriting the high honor that will be officially bestowed upon him Monday; for assuming responsibilities which day-by-day can become heavier as the world moves farther into the space age; for still insisting that he is, first of all, a teacher; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

"THIS IS WHAT WE NEED"

Agencies Present Budgets. Sixteen agencies affiliated with the Princeton Union presented their budgets. Fund last week presented budgets totalling $261,000 to the Princeton community. It was the fifth annual Budget Panel Conference, held each year at the YMCA High School to provide a public forum for residents of Princeton so that they can examine each agency budget, tear it apart if necessary and reconstruct it, if wholeheartedly as it stands. Last year's Fund goal was $212,000.

Each panel of about 15 members listened to the agency presentation, asked questions, and then, in "executive session," the agency representatives waiting anxiously outside, discussed the budget and decided whether to approve, approve with qualifications, or not to approve at all.

The reports of each panel will be referred to the Community Fund Budget Committee which will, in turn, recommend specific Fund allocations for each agency out of the total budget of $426,000, or more, on the whole than that did last year. One of the largest increases has been requested by Princeton Hospital, which is seeking an additional $20,000. The request represents about 19 percent of the total Fund budget, but it is the first increase the Hospital has asked for in ten years, according to John W. Hartman, Hospital administrator, who made the budget presentation. Mr. Kauffman pointed to substantial Hospital salaries, the need for additional facilities and the desire to avoid further rate increases as the primary reasons behind the Hospital's request.

It had been expected that considerable opposition to the Hospital's budget would be expressed by several members of the Children's Budget Committee who had asked to be assigned to the Panel, but only one member of the League appeared.

FUND PRESIDENT BLAICHER: His agency's budgets for 1961 were carefully scanned by prospective donors.

Mrs. John K. Hemphill, Princeton - Kingston Road, asked whether the Hospital might derive more rental income from the Medical Arts Building without endangering the Hospital's non-profit status. Fred Blaicher, Hospital president, asked about the bequest to the Hospital from the estate of Archibald Gulick, and Mr. Kauffman said that this money was solely for capital improvements.

"We're Not Experts," "None of us is a budget expert, we have to depend on the good sense of these agencies." This remark, made during the Hospital hearing, was repeated in essence many times during the subsequent hearings. However, there were moments when sharp questions were raised, sometimes on technical accounting matters, sometimes on basic philosophies. The YMCA came in for considerable criticism on both counts.

"I'm contributing to a middle-class club and give to the library. Other panel members joined him in expressing the belief that the scope of the YMCA is too narrow.

"Negro boys no longer feel wanted in the 'Y,'" was one opinion, "and they used to make it their second home." One Negro panel member, however, defended the "Y" and said that it was not a charitable organization, but a place for wholesome recreation. "They aren't getting enough for what they get," one panel member said.

Other criticism was directed at the "Y" budget, particularly at the amount allotted to the operation of the YWCA. Although the "Y" budget was not disapproved, the feeling of the panel was expressed by one member who said, "Don't let me tell you that they will always do this."

Budget criticism was also leveled against the Mental Health Association, but the criticism was a general one. It was mentioned especially that hope lies in the future, agency budgets would all be uniform. This budget was approved—not quite unanimously; some ought to have one dissent, said a panel member, and he voted "nay."

Turnabout: At least two of the six playgrounds called for asking for a little more money. Guidance was asked "Have you set your sights high enough?" and "Shouldn't this budget be twice as big?" The Education Survey School was also told that its budget was too small, particularly where the director's salary was concerned.

Panel members considering the Playground Committee budget asked why the summer playgrounds couldn't run with money from the local municipalities. The agency representatives replied that the playgrounds would then become a jointly sponsored recreation program, which is not yet legal.

The Girl Scouts were questioned about the way they budgeted their Cookie Fund money, and the panel recommended that the $600 allocated to the Girl Scout unit be included in the budget. The question of Girl Scout integration was also raised, but it was answered by a Brownie leader who said she had agreed for her group to help her for their troop.

"The Same People Help." The Fund panels serve an informative and useful function in the Princeton Community; that was the conclusion of the list of big donors, one Fund official said. "It's always the same dedicated people who do the work."

But you see the same names on the panels, the same volunteers making agency presentations and the same names on the list of big donors, one Fund official said. "It's always the same dedicated people who do the work."

Members of the panels were chosen from all areas of life in Princeton: Dr. R. P. Wang gave his professional backing to the Children's Home and Adoption; James Watson, a controller in professional life, gave valuable advice to the Children's Home and YMCA. Other names on the panel included:

A. Abrahams contributed to the Nursery School panel the experience of years of nursery school work. Similar examples could be cited for each of the panels.

Many participants were particularly interested in learning about some of the more reticent agencies, like the Children's Home and Adoption, the Community Assistance Association or the Mental Health Association. If the remarks about increased publicity are taken seriously by these agencies, the Princeton community may be hearing much more about them in the future.

ROUND UP

Two-year old Jonathon Kuhn will have to wait a while but some day he can tell his children that he fell victim of a lightning bolt and his mother's hurt a bit... he did just that Sunday afternoon at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kuhn, 54-B College Road, spending the night in Princeton Hospital for observation but showing no ill effects... Dr. J. F. Wagner of Trenton found himself in the Gas House last Thursday afternoon, cut her hand slightly in trying to get out by breaking a pane of glass in the front door but attracted the notice of John Marcuso, who told her the side exit doors were unlocked from the inside.

Beginning Monday, a curfew will be in effect for two weeks on the Princeton-Hightstown Road. It will be closed while repaving is in process from the New Jersey Turnpike to the road to Rabb Hill Road and all traffic will be detoured via the Dutch Neck - Grovers Mill Road, the Dutch Neck - Hightstown Road and the Locust Corner - Edinburg Road.

Cigarette vending machines at the Pennsylvania Railroad Station and the University's Campus Center were searched last week with undetermined amounts of money and cigarettes taken... and speaking of cigarettes, Gov. McCrory has proposed a cent-cent increase per pack in state tax to finance badly-needed institutional buildings for New Jersey, including two hospitals for the mentally retarded.

An ordinance requiring that swimming pools be fenced in is scheduled for introduction at Monday's Township Committee meeting. The rainfall is below normal but the temperature is not, particularly after hitting a high of 89 on Monday, two degrees short of the record for April 25.

architect will be appointed this Spring to make plans for the new school. These will be presented for public discussion and consideration next Fall. Bids are to be received in the Spring of 1963, with construction starting that Summer and be completed by July 1, 1962.

Typing in with the Township's Master Plan recommendation that "the new school be integrated with the expansion plans for Township Hall and the central Community Park development," the Board of Education on School Site will meet regularly with members of the Township Committee, the Recreation Commission and the Trustees of the Community Park Fund. In this way, the school is expected to augment the Township's recreational plan for the central section.

Beyond Capacity. Now, in deciding to go ahead with plans for the new school, the board pointed out that the school population in the central section has already exceeded the capacity of Valley Road School. Valley Road has an optimum capacity of 619 children, and this year there were 640 children in grades 7 and 8, and 480 children from the central section attending kindergarten through grade 8, for a total of 744.

As the enrollment continues to exceed its capacity, transportation some lower grade children to the John S. Perrin and Littlebrook Schools, whose populations are at capacity, the board said, is expected to increase, leading to higher transportation costs, greater inconvenience to more families, and finally inability to accommodate any lower grade children at Valley Road.

In the board's judgment, the problem will become critical after 1962.

News Of The THEATRES

FANNIE HURST ON PANEL
For "Age of Anxiety." Novelist Fannie Hurst will appear with W. H. Auden, Sean O'Faolain and Jimmy Durante in the television presentation of "Age of Anxiety" opening this Thursday evening at Murray Theatre. The theatre's Intime production will also be presented this Friday and Saturday and again on Sunday and Monday through next Saturday, May 7, all performances at 8:30.

John Becker, well-known production director who is staging this production, has specially arranged for the filming of the celebrities for the show. The stage version of the poem was done by Mr. Becker and Graham Parker, with advice from Mr. Auden. An added feature will be the modern jazz music of Norm Symonds, written especially for this production.

Far from being a "reading" of the Auden work, "Age of Anxiety" is a full-fledged theatrical production employing the newest techniques of modern stage-craft and yet retaining the core and spirit of Auden's words. A cast of four will speak the poem in living English, Battie, portraying a middle-aged man, William Harman is an intellectual who hides his fears with epigrams, Jeffrey Moss is a nervous young man, and George Hall is a determined woman of the world but not weary of men.

Tickets may be ordered by calling WA 4-3539. They are also on sale at the University Store.

THEY'RE OFF TO SEA

On H. M. S. Pinafore, "H.M.S. Pinafore," Gilbert and Sullivan's rollicking operetta about the captain of "H.M.S. Pinafore," hardy sailor went to sea and the lass who loved a sailor, will open this Friday evening at McCarter Theatre after the Savoyards' production will also have opened the day before and at both matinee and evening performances next Saturday, May 7.

Sharing the role of the Admiral will be Lee H. Bristol, Jr., who also played the lead in last year's production of "Iolanthe." Others in the cast will be Dr. Walter Damon as Captain Corcoran, Marlene Wharff as Buttercup, Sheldon Simon as Ralph Rackstraw, Reba Gillman as Josephine, Donna Randall as Hebe and Frank Felleman as Dick Deadeye.

Three directors are in charge of the production of "H.M.S. Pinafore." They are Munro Wade, stage director; Peter Delign, choreographer, and Mel Olson, musical director. Wade and Olson served in the same capacities for the Savoyards' "Iolanthe."

Governor and Mrs. Meyner and 60 members of the New Jersey Legislature will attend the opening performance. Tickets for all performances are still available at the University Store.

BERMAN AT MCCARTER

Comic Draws Enthusiastic Crowd. Shelley Berman, who appeared before large audiences in two shows at McCarter Theatre Friday night, left a "sick comic." There is an unfortunate lack of stability in his stage manner, but his satirical monologue is healthy, perceptive and often funny.

The audiences were composed largely of undergraduates and their Princeton spectators and dates. Mr. Berman was aware that many of his hearers were familiar with his best-selling records. Frequently the applause was so great that he had to add more than a couple of lines of his better known routines, and it is due to his skill that he is able to preserve a semblance of spontaneity in sequences which he has undoubtedly repeated night after night for months.

At his best, as he was in a farcical episode in the role of a man who finds his black hair in his glass of milk, Mr. Berman is superb. He is a fine comic actor and pantomimist and fond of making telephone routines, which were enthusiastically received, though they were little satirical triumphs.

It is too bad, however, that he tends to do the same act over and over again.

Funny lines and situations are too often milked until they are no longer amusing, and one becomes effectively bored and annoyed by the man's clinging to his girl friend to find out why their relationship was going on the rocks was ruined by its length and redundancy.

News Of The Theatres

Unsuccessful Finale. Mr. Berman was called back for an encore after his first show, instead of continuing his monologue he turned in a defensive and embarrassing half-triumph to his audience. He was obviously unsatisfied by the mild hissing that greeted his other cracks about McCarter (he had some microphones and lighting difficulties). All visiting performers seem to be afraid that the graduate hissing is usually good-natured, and does not necessarily imply disapproval.

Like other irreverent comedies — Mrs. Sahl, Lenay Bruce — Mr. Berman has a compulsion to keep talking even when he has nothing to say. But he is a better comedian than most of his colleagues, and unlikely to be afraid that his graduate hissing is not primarily ad libber. Judicial scissoring of his material and more careful attention to the more important details of his act would dramatically improve the presentation of the flashes of comic genius which his act undoubtedly contains.

Gateway Singers Perform. On the bill with Mr. Berman were the Gateway Singers, a slickly competent, entertaining folk-singing group. The Singers stuck close to the traditional repertory of field — "Kisses Sweeter Than Wine," "The Rock Island Line" — and while their canned patter was sometimes tiresome, their rapport with the audiences was complete.

"CLERAMBARD" A GEM

Farcie Pokes Fun At Tradition. The Count of Clerambard stood prominently in the middle of his family brioche, his bargee riding breeches and worn black habotache a fitting accompaniment to the cracked walls and dusty corners.

Never before, however, had the count been declared, sailing haughtily. "It has been in the family for 400 years."

"That's long enough!" snapped his mother-in-law. "Sell it!"

Thus began "Clerambard," the ribald, thought-provoking farce which paid a delightful visit to the Princeton Community Theatre. A highlight of the Celeste Series, this Drama Guild production of Marcel Ayme's work is a brightly-polished gem.

All the actors were perfect in their roles, from their telling gestures to their crisp renditions of the rapid-fire dialog. Smooth direction brought out the best in the satirical plot, and the impressionistic settings, with their half-lighting added greatly to the mood.

Merry Go-Round of Satire. Up the tradition-bound Count in his crumpling mansion as a starting point, "Clerambard" jumps quickly on a merry-go-round of desecrations, accusations, pet shots and a carnival of established mores. The Count, it seems, has been making ends meet by setting his family up as a theatrical in the living room, recently having his foot cut off by a horse by killing his neighborhood cats and dogs.

This all comes out in an abrupt halting when the Count has a vision of St. Francis of Assisi, who instructs him in the joy of loving all God's creatures. An immediate transformation results, the count berating his wife for killing a spider: "You murdered your little sister!" — and turning down the offer of a marriage-franc dowry from the local grocer in order to arrange a marriage between his son and the town prostitute.

On the final night of the play, the Count has sold his mansion and bought a gypsy cart in which the entire family can travel about, finally begging food, "leaving the trail of love." Everyone accompanies him joyfully, for they too have seen a vision of St. Francis. This is that, except the local priest, who looks dazedly at the Count, muttering, "I can't see anything! I can't see anything at all!"

From the audience, however, it was easy to see very clearly indeed, and while the probing light might have caused an occasional sneeze, there was no doubt that "Clerambard" was a sparkling show that well merited its reputation as one of the best of the off-Broadway plays.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Once More, With Feeling (April 27-30) is valuable chiefly because it offers a last glimpse of the terrifically gifted Ray Kendall, who was ill during the filming and died of leukemia soon after it was completed. It will be a long while before another comedian of her stature appears, and this is reason enough to see "Once More, With Feeling."

FROM THE ISLANDS

Elverhei Fashions Are Back. Elverhei dresses, designed and made in Charlotte Amalie, Virgin Islands, by Beth Kiendl, will be back at Princeton Inn next Tuesday and Wednesday for your inspection and purchase. Go to Chamber Room A on either day from 10 to 12 to see the delicate dresses that Kitty Atkinson has once more brought to Princeton for connoisseurs of the fine seam. In spite of the Caribbean origin, the dresses are simple and sleek—no bunchy trim or peasant ruffles. For example, there's a non-crushable sheath, half-lined, with a belt and a bias tuck on each side of the waist and a print facing around boat neck and sleeveless armholes. The facing just barely shows as you move. In sage green, black, beige, cherry, yellow, pink or blue.

A pure silk cocktail dress made of turquoise, royal and mystic blue print, is divided at the waist by a high sash, almost like an ou in style. It ties with a small bow in front.

The bodice has a boat neck and cap sleeves. Like all Beth Kiendl's dresses, it is lined with silk organza. (The skirt on this one has left unlined, so that the silk can billow more softly.)

Another cocktail dress feels like stiff lawn. It has a Matisse print of greens and blues in batik style and the print is used again for the three-inch underskirt ruffle that borders a white petticoat underskirt. Both are made of the modified boat neck and the snug waist, tucked and darted and folded in artful and flittering ways.

Irish brush linen—a somewhat "broader" weave than the usual Irish linen—has been used in a casual dress with lime, natural and rose stripes. Broken as though they have been run by a brush not quite full of ink. The full skirt has Basque tucks stitched down to about hip length for a full fit. The back is low, and there is a narrow sash to tie in front (another of Kiendl's trade marks.)

A charming young dress in Swiss poplin has a skirt of small unpressed pleats and a hem faced with white organdy. The plain bodice is decorated with a quiet trolley of embroidery in the same grey, pink or blue as the dress. There will also be on display at

Even a Woman?

It's a foolproof camera that's what it is, and in this case, "fool" means "foolproof." Of course, that implies we're talking about cameras that are well-witted. Heaven! Merely that women have their minds on more important matters than the trivial association with trying to get correct exposure and shutter speed before taking a picture.

Agfa has thoughtfully sent to May Pennington, in the Shopping Center, the 35-mm. Optima, billed as "the fully automatic camera."

"Gone," says Agfa, "are all the steps involved in photography. You set a special lens with a big depth of field which eliminates the need for measuring distance. Then you press a button and it gives you the correct exposure automatically."

You will," according to Agfa, "be able to achieve photographic masterpieces in color or black and white, of course."

The audience on which Agfa has focused is the feminine audience that can't tell a shutter from a lamp. "Fool-proof," gains!

The Princeton line a group of Italian cashmere skirts with matching sweaters in pastel colors. Skirts are silk-lined. These will be $19.50 a set.

Prices for the dresses start at $29.50 and go up to $45. The sizes are 10 to 12, and there are models at the Inn both days, so you can see just how you will look.

Color in Your Camera. Agfa, having taken care of people who don't want to set their own shutter speeds (see box), now produces a new color film that will take color pictures without any who takes colored pictures.

This is Agfacolor, a very fine grain film which "sees" true color—blue skies, skin tones, the really the color of these good reds. There are no "poster" effects and nothing artificial. Shadow detail is clean and without color casts.

You can use the Agfacolor negatives for color slides, if you use a projector. Or you can make black and white prints without special paper or dark-room techniques.

The new film is available at MacCarron's in the Shopping Center, in two speeds for very fine grain and enlargements, and a third film for the usual requirements.

THE EGG AND I: Yul Brynner and Kay Kendall share a tender moment in the Technicolor comedy, "Once More, With Feeling," which will be featured at the Playhouse through Saturday. The cast also includes Gregory Ratoff.

As a motion picture, however, the story is about a temperamental condition (Yul Brynner), his Russo-Yiddish manager, (Gregory Ratoff) and his marital difficulties with Miss Kendall is probably the best part of the film. It is learned by that time that he is not a comic actor except unintentionally, as in "Solomon and Sheba." He continues energy for a while and when he occasionally gets off a good line, he grins secretly as if he had accidentally stumbled on the quantum theory. Finally he starts to mumble and it is difficult by a script based on the assumption that phrases like "Let all my clients go to Sol Hurok if I am not telling the truth" are screening out the truth are screening out the truth.

But through it all, Miss Kendall is fresh and funny, and you may find, as we did, that after a few days of watching her you remember about the picture with any precision are some of her gestures and phrases. The film is in Technicolor. Recommended.

Heller in Pink Tights (May 1-3) features the Wild West debut of Sophia Loren, who is deliciously coy and winsome for the occasion in blonde hair. The cast also includes Anthony Quinn, Margaret O'Brien, Steve Forrest, Eileen Herlie, Eddie Constantine and Ramon Novarro. Harold Lipman is responsible for the excellent Technicolor photography.

Quinn, the director of a theater company, who is touring the West one step ahead of his creditors. He is in love with his star, Miss Loren, and is exasperated by her flirting and irresponsibility. Quinn's wife, a gambler, loses herself to Forrest in a poker game. Quinn learns of the wager during a hectic ride through Indian country and decides to disband his troupe in an effort to bring him back. And there in the beneath that wig beats a heart of unbleached gold. Miss Loren uses her charms to collect an overdue debt and sets up a theatre for Quinn.

It's all pleasantly done and Quinn is fine in his leading role. Miss Loren, who has yet to provide her first serious threat to Helen Hayes, is amiable and fun to look at.

THE WIND

The Wind Cannot Read (April 26-30) hangs on a plot of mere symbolism, which makes it more of a D. H. Lawrence writer. At a Burmese jungle outpost, warthorn and ugly, a British sergeant posts a sign that the soldiers must not touch the flowers in his tiny garden. Later, because it is illiterate, the wind uproots the blooms and carries them off into space. Nature, you see, is a force of hell and uncontrollable, and it's a hard row we mortals have to hoe.

The stars are Dirk Bogarde, Yoko Tani and Ronald Lewis. Bogarde is a soldier and Miss Tani, a woman in India who is an instructress. Despite racial barriers, they marry and are blissfully happy until the sergeant is captured and killed. Because he said that his wife is ill, Borgarde escapes and rushes in her bedside just in time for a melodramatic death scene. A woman is good and true should not have died. Borgarde protests, but she has forgotten that the wind cannot read.

Diabolique (May 2) is probably the most breathless film of the last ten years. Featuring Simone Signoret, who won an Academy Award last month for her role in "Room at the Top," the picture is an ingenious reconstruction of the efforts of a woman and her lover to escape the amatory "corps" of her supposedly murdered husband.

The bulk of the action takes place in a private school in France, and the film is a kind of parable of the guilt that follows sin. At one point, after the crime has been committed, the school body and faculty are lined up in front of the school for a formal picture. When the negative is developed, the ill-used husband is seen hanging from the upper window. After this, the danger of anti-climax would seem to be great, but the film's conclusion is just about the most chilling thing that ever appeared on the screen. In French with English titles and not for the young and impressionable, the film is skillfully done, with first-rate acting and direction. Recommended.

Bye Bye, Birdie (Maybe)

An all-out effort to rid the Princeton High School tower of omnipresent pigeons is about to begin. Bryan V. Moore, member of the Borough Board of Education, announced at a recent trustees' meeting that a special point designed to repel pigeons has been ordered and will be applied in the near future.

A proposal to dispel the pigeon plague, which has been a source of complaint, was among the actions urged by PHS students at a recent board session when students took over the roles of board members. The student requesting the action on the pigeons was Miss Mardi Coyle, freshman.

Concerning Mr. Moore

on his efficiency, Graham

Rohrer, board president, said,

"I'm amazed that this particular job has been approached so seriously and so speedily.

I thought it would be one of the most difficult of the students' requests."

Instructions may be subject to arrest, under the New Jersey Orderly Conduct Code: The "all-clear" (stand-by minute siren) will sound at 2:30.

During this half-hour of public participation, there will be a competition among the nation's CONELRAD stations for first place. The CONELRAD frequencies, 640 and 1240 on the radio dial, will be from 2 to 230. Eighteen radio stations in New Jersey, including some FM stations, will take part in the drill and all other radio and television stations will be off the air. In the event of actual attack, CONELRAD stations will provide fallout warnings and instructions.

State and county control centers will be activated around the clock during the three-day drill. In order to make the exercise more realistic, the number of "bombs" dropped on the "target areas" will not be disclosed ahead of time. Disaster Control personnel will continue to work during Wednesday and Thursday to evaluate the effects of "bomb hits" throughout the state, determine the force and direction of winds and estimate from these data, the effects of fallout on areas in the path of the approaching storm.

Princeton residents who have questions about the forthcoming alert may call the Disaster Control Director's Office, 102 Witherspoon Street.

Question of the Week

Question: What book have you read in the past few years that will, in your opinion, still be read 50 years from now?

Where asked: Princeton Public Library.

Dr. M. L. Savage, 210 Prospect Avenue, archivist at Firestone Library: I should say Winston Churchill's "A History of the English-Speaking Peoples." It represents a fresh synthesis of relationships between two great powers that are closely bound in blood and speech.

Mrs. William H. Martin, Woodville-Marshall's Corners Road, Hopewell, housewife: "These Loves Fleed Away" by Howard Spartacus. It has not yet been compared with Charles Dickens but I like him better than Dickens. He is easier to read and not as long and wordy. His characters are very realistic and literally spring into life.

Christopher Pool, 301 Hamilton High, University student: I have interviewed my very much by Ayn Rand called "The Fountainhead." I feel the book is a good barometer of our times. It gives a realistic portrait of the contemporary gurus of the pantsbutton world, big syndicate sort of thing where it is no longer a question of individual men but of The Organization. It analyzed the question of altruism as opposed to altruism or philanthropism as a way of exerting oneself in the world; the egoist versus the mass society; the individual who tries to accomplish things at the expense of others.

Mrs. P. William Hutchinson, 343 Nassau Street, assistant librarian, Princeton Public Library: I'm sure that the play, "JB," by Archibald MacLeish will still be read 50 years from now. It deals with a problem that will affect man through eternity: suffering.

Mrs. Kenneth Young, Lincoln Highway, Kingston, assistant librarian, Princeton Public Library: "The Scrapetape Letters" by C. S. Lewis. Mr. Lewis is one of the major critics of society and religion today and if every society in 2010 wants to know of the problems faced by society in 1960 they would do well to turn to Lewis who so ably described them.

Frederick W. Wolfe, Jr., Bank Street artist: "War and Civilization" by Toynbee. I believe he is one of the outstanding historians of our era. He puts what he knows to be true in words and he presents facts in a way we can understand as we would like them to be, or are accustomed to hearing them. The sugary, "we're - always - ahead" sort of thing.

Mrs. Russell Butler, 91 Baltic Road, housewife: "The Village School" by Muriel Spark is a page turner. It's an English novel and contains a delightfully oddball story about pleasant people that made sense. Most of the novels, though, that we read in this country do not. American novels paint such a horrid, unpleasant picture of life. Their people have no morals, say, the most disagreeable things and have such a poor opinion of humanity. They have no religion, there is nothing. People aren't like that.

Charles C. Stech, 138 Jefferson Street, director of classes of "The Past": by Herbert J. Muller. He knows how to write and has aroused much comment, especially adverse comment from specialists and Muller deals with his subject in relation with a minimum of offence, a very difficult thing to do. His book is definitely not for Fundamentalists, but other people, I feel, would find it enlightening. I liked the book so much that I have sent a number of friends copies.

Mrs. Martha Kinney, 183 Locust Court, housewife: The novel Exodus. Since I was born Europe and came to this country during the Hitler regime, the story of the exodus of the Jews affected me greatly. On the same subject, I've just read the biography of Ben Gurion by St. John which, I thought, was very well written and described the prime minister of Israel beautifully.

Richard R. Gilbert, The Great Road, minister: Winston Churchill's "History of the English-Speaking Peoples" will be widely read not only for its historical value, which is slight, but also because it is an literary value which reflects this rare spirit.

Mrs. Richard Colman, 2 Campbellton Circle, housewife: Possibly the Alexandrian Tetralogy just recently completed by Lawrence Durrell. It presents a cross-section of time since the books aren't written as sequels but as different dimensions of the same story.

Hadley Centri, 14 Mercer Street, social researcher: Lao Tsu's "The Way of Life" is one I have every read and think it has to offer as about any book there is. It is only about 80 pages long but it is a book you never finish reading. Everything you read it you see something new.

Mrs. Walter Roberts, Hedgewood, housewife: Found in the book I just finished reading, "Advise and Consent." I think it has great educational value. It gives an intimate, blow-by-blow account of the workings in all phases of politics and government in Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Edward Wanberg, 32 Chestnut Street, housewife: The works of Eugene Ionesco, a Rumanian playwright living in Paris. He's terribly, offbeat, and writes in a really crazy, crazy, crazy manner style that is extreme, nonsensical, and cruel, but one which, he feels, represents the present condition in human world we are living in, in which many values have been obscured, ignored and distorted. Also, he is a good theatre, aside from his message.

Mrs. Eileen Summerfield, 964 Kingston Road, housewife: I think "Kon-Tiki" will always be of interest to read. It is an interesting story and one learns a lot about the sea from it. The fact that it is a true story which happened to real people adds to its value.

FAULTY WIRING? This one-story frame building was almost completely destroyed by fire Friday morning. Standing on the grounds of the Columbus Boy Choir School on Rosedale Road, it was the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Colle, a couple employed by the school. Fire Chief James Pace said faulty wiring might have been the cause.

EVALUATION UNDERTAKEN

By Borough Board of Health
David T. Blake, Borough Health Officer, has recently joined the Health Department, working closely with Doctor Estey, central district Health Officer of New Jersey, and Frederick Meyer, Commissioner of the State Department of Health. He is in the process of evaluating the health problems and needs of the Borough.

"We have worked out a comprehensive plan, however, regarding all phases of what a good public health department should be and do," Mr. Blake said. "We intend sending this to neighboring health officers and all other agencies concerned interested in public health. Their replies and suggestions will be used as a guide for our own board in our efforts to find out what areas we can do a better job than we are doing now," he added.

A partial list of the headings in the survey includes acute communicable diseases, laboratory services, veterinary public health, nutrition, crippled children, maternal and child health, chronic and preventable diseases, venereal disease control, TB control, environmental sanitation, public water supply, sewage disposal, garbage collection, disposal of solid and milk products, swimming pools, insect and rodent control, and ragweed and poison ivy control.

TO WORK FOR CASE

"Look Forward With Confidence." Commenting on the re-nomination of Senator Clifford P. Case in the Republican Primary, Robert P. Cook, chairman of the Princeton Committee for Case, had this to say:

"Republicans can now look forward with confidence to a future in which the conservative forces in the party will prevail and the party will be able to win elections and to serve the needs of the people. We are grateful to all those who helped, contributed and voted for Senator Case. They have done a great service to the party, the state and the country."

Mrs. Esther Taylor, a director of the Princeton League of Women Voters and a state director of the League in New Jersey, has announced her resignation from both organizations to work with Mr. Cook and his Citizens for Case Committee. The League is a non-partisan organization, and its members are prohibited to participate in the activities of political parties. However, Board members customarily resign their positions when they enter active politics.

OIL HEAT COUNCIL OF NEW JERSEY

1060 BROAD STREET, NEWARK 2, NEW JERSEY Market 3-2420

Report from THE MAYOR

Meeting on Prospect Planned
 Mayor and Council will hold a special meeting this Thursday, April 28, at 8 p.m., in Borough Hall to take final action on the ordinance with respect to the extension of Prospect Avenue from Cedar Lane to the Borough line. The Mayor has been in touch with the Board of Zoning Adjustment to provide a number of pros and cons for the deliberation of Council. At this week's session Councilman Lester L. Ladd abstained because of another public service which has called him out of the state, but he has left a signed statement of his views on the ordinance so that his colleagues and the public will know where he stands on this matter.

A Doubleheader is Scheduled. This evening's regular session will actually be the second meeting that day for the governing body. At 4:30 p.m., the schedule calls for a hearing on an alleged violation of the alcoholic beverage law. The hearing was previously postponed at the request of the licensee.

Liquor license applications for the reactivation of Mayor and Council frequently of late. Last Thursday, each of the seven applicants for the available license was interviewed. Even the applicants seemed to agree that Council was confronted with a difficult decision.

The Reserve Auxiliary Police, at the request of Captain Sage and with the advice of Borough Attorney McCarthy, Mayor and Council are working toward the reactivation of the auxiliary police. This group will eventually be a Borough-Township force which would be under the direction of our civil defense and disaster control coordinator.

State has recently a training period for them. It is anticipated that the recruits will be given a pre-appointment medical and physical examination and other tests to determine fitness for this important responsibility.

Safety Meeting Announced. Sergeant Tamm will conduct an important meeting of the Borough Safe Committee for this Thursday, April 28, at 3:30 p.m.

Hight on the agenda will be a consideration of recommendations to be made to the Council concerning the Washington Road pedestrian hazards. Preliminary studies have been made concerning lighting, signs, fencing and other ideas presented at the last meeting of the safety group.

Review Of Sites Thursday. Also on Thursday, April 28, Borough is expecting an official visit from Federal officials who will inspect the proposed sites for the 13 public housing units required as relocation housing in connection with the urban renewal project. It is expected that the decision of the New Jersey Supreme Court in the pending litigation will be handed down shortly.

"Tell It To The Mayor." The regular weekly "open house" sessions will be held this Friday, April 29, and next Friday, May 6, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No admission is necessary for these informal meetings.

Some time ago, four youngsters dropped by to volunteer their services to help with Borough cleaning or beautification projects. Last Saturday morning they brought about 40 of their young friends to spruce up the war memorial at the corner of Mercer and State Streets.

Their energy and spirit impressed passers-by who expressed the hope that their enthusiasm would be contagious for the rest of the community as well.

For Saturday, May 14. The Princeton Country Day School fair will be held Saturday, May 14, on the school's grounds. A circus with rides for children will be featured, as well as games of chance and skill, a side show and booths for food. Lunch will be served cafeteria style, beginning at 11:30, with dinner at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Karl D. Pettit Jr. is chairman of the fair, with Lawrence Johnson serving as treasurer. Committee chairman are Mrs. Arthur Sherman, Mrs. Warren Shaw, Mrs. Charles Hanan, Mrs. Nicholas Cameron, Leighton Laughlin and Robert Whitlock.

FEDERALISTS WILL MEET

To Hear Speakers. Dr. Hubert N. Alyea, department of chemistry at Princeton University, and Louis B. Dailey, president of the state chapter of the United World Federals, will speak to the Princeton chapter of the UWF at the 10th annual public dinner to be held on Tuesday, May 3, at the Nassau Inn.

Harland W. Hoisington, Jr., president of the Princeton chapter, is in charge of arrangements for the dinner. His committee members are Mrs. Corinne Steinlein, arrangements; Mrs. Louis Pensak, invitations; Mrs. Charles Coote, speakers; Mrs. Barbara Esser and Fred W. Tenney, tables and Edward R. Rey, publicity.

THREE MOVE IN

Three new tenants, three new lessees have moved into office space in the Thompson Building and Thompson Court at 195 Nassau Street. The University, owned by Dr. Bryce Thompson, includes parking spaces for 40 cars and occupies about 14,000 square feet.

Magna Boni Products Inc. and Joseph A. Dougherty Associates Inc. are now tenants at Thompson Court. Thomas J. Sullivan, who was a star swimmer at Princeton University, has opened a distillery office there. He is a chemist whose main office is in Camden. The company produces a plastic paint. The public relations firm of Joseph A. Dougherty Associates will move into the former General Hospital Corporation of America, where Mr. Dougherty was executive vice-president. He had previously been an account supervisor at J. Walter Thompson and Young & Rubicam in New York City.

The Thompson Building has also gained a tenant in the person of Carl Salan, a branch of the California corporation which produces instruments measuring dynamic phenomena and their electronic systems. Carl Salan is the field engineer in charge of the Princeton office.

Other tenants of the two buildings are F. O. Davis Company, Willis F. Fane D.D.S., William C. Seaman C.P.A. and Thompson Realty. The Thompson Building was put up in 1888 as the residence for John J. Golden. The number of rooms in it were converted to Thompson Court and once housed Princeton's first taxi and an antique shop.

Future plans include the conversion of the Thompson Building's lower level to shop space for fall occupancy. A double office or shop suite is available in the Court and two rooms for offices are vacant in the main building.

SEVEN RACES SATURDAY

Climaxed By Childs Cup. The pleasurable pastime of sitting on grassy banks while crews flash across the track were well enjoyed by Princeton on Saturday afternoon. In all, seven races are scheduled (see box), with good weather expected to draw up to 2,000 to Lake Carnegie's shores near the finish line at the Kingston dam.

Princeton, loser to Navy last weekend, has a long lead lengthwise in trying to win the climactic Childs Cup race for the first time since 1957. Defending champion Pennsylvania is a slight favorite to retain the trophy, while Columbia, fourth, would be a stunning upset. If the Lions win, it will be for the first time in 20 years.

The Tigers claimed Navy with some success for the first mile and a half of the two-mile race. The second half was evened by giving in to the high heat the midshipmen were able to sustain. The Orange and Black ears trailed by only half a length with half a mile to go, but the victors widened the gap steadily, hitting an unusual high of 10 just before the finish.

Navy's junior varsity and plebe crews also won their respective margins of three-quarters of a length and a length and a quarter. In each case, the Princeton showing was considered satisfactory against the well-conditioned, high-regarded midshipmen.

Princeton's senior 150-lb. crew salvaged the lone victory on Saturday from Navy, winning by a margin of a second over the Henry distance. The Tigers, who added the middles to Columbia in their second race, trailed by a quarter length with 600 yards to go but a fine drive nipped the opposition by less than a deck length.

Lack of practice and lack of weight affected the Cornell team in the "Tupper" varsity from going higher than a stroke of 31½ against Navy. Penn will provide a full slate of opposition this weekend, with the Tigers hoping for their first victory in more than two years.

INDIANS SHILLACKED

By Nine-Inning Inning. Ability to rout the opposition through use of baseball's most prized weapon, "the big inning," was again demonstrated on Sunday by Princeton. Trailing 1-2 in the ninth, the Tigers jammed nine runs across the plate as 14 men batted, thereby wrapping up an 11-4 triumph for their first victory over Dartmouth in four years.

Earlier in the week, senior Bill Douglas had hurled a no-hit game against Manhattan to give the Orange and Black an 8-0 victory. See "We Congratulate," page 25, for details.

A 2-0 Princeton lead against the Indians was vanished as third starter Wally Pfeifer, by the time the Tigers came to bat in the bottom of the sixth, cost two costly errors and a bases-loaded single by shortstop Cornell. Princeton then scored four runs across the plate for the visitors in the previous inning.

Saturday's Crew Schedule

- 2-50 — 150-lb. Varsity, Cornell vs. Princeton
- (150-lb. races, 1 5/16 miles)
- 3-30 — Third Varsity, Penn vs. Princeton
- 3-40 — Second Freshmen, Penn, Columbia, Princeton
- 3-50 — Freshmen, Columbia, Penn, Princeton
- 4-10 — Jayvees, Columbia, Penn, Princeton
- 4-30 — Childs Cup, Columbia, Penn, Princeton (Heavyweight races, 1 1/2 miles)

when the throw to the plate got away from the catcher. Lupien switched pitchers again.

The next Dartmouth hurler, an effort was made with pitch that sent Karjane to third. Jim Hunter walked, Bob Myslik singled to right, scoring Karjane. Mickey Deegan was safe when the pitcher dropped the bat, but he ran his throw, filling the bases. Bill MacMillan emptied them with a double over the center fielder's head and MacMillan scored and Bill Murray up for the second time, to fill the bases again. Naples squeeze bunt scored MacMillan. Another wild pitch scored Ippolito. The other two runs were earned. Whitehouse was hit by the pitcher. The pitcher balked, Murray scoring. Karjane walked, Whitehouse taking third on the balk, then scored. Murray batted. Hunter, the 14th man to bat, filed right to end the inning.

OTHER SPORTS

Thurber Breaks Own Record. A juggling record of 22 feet, 7 inches was broken Saturday at Philadelphia Ed Thurber to break the University record he had set last year as a freshman. The Lawrenceville resident, a good bet to make the Harvard team next month, has thrown better than 230 feet in practice.

Princeton improved the Scarlet and Purple Singing at 91-10, fine a 43-quarter-mile by Frank Edmunds lending hope that his chronic heel injury will not slow him this spring. Wednesday's meet with Columbia, the final season in which Princeton will be favored, will be followed by another at 2 Saturday in the Stadium with Harvard.

Lacrosse Team Loses Fourth. A brief 2-lead over powerful Army vanished quickly Saturday on University Field as the cadets' lacrosse team handed Princeton its first straight defeat. Princeton led 6-5 final, with the victors holding leads of 5-2 after the first period and 8-5 in the half.

Thomas ten opened its Ivy season Wednesday against Pennsylvania, and travels to Hanover to face Dartmouth on Saturday. Defense of the Ivy title, it now figures, goes to Cornell in final game of the year against Cornell here on May 21.

NEW JERSEY BELL

WE Congratulate

DAVE DOUGLAS
Princeton Pitcher

The team atop the respected Metropolitan Baseball Conference composed of great New York City eight teams, is Manhattan, boasting a solid 7-0 record. Overall, the Jaspers are 10-1, but that lone defeat may they'll remember all season long.

Dave Douglas, 21-year old Princeton senior, will remember it for the rest of his life. The Dutchman built 11, 10 left-hander threw a no-hitter against Manhattan last Thursday on University Field, and as the handful of fans can testify, it was near-perfection from start to finish.

Getting peerless support from his mates, Douglas allowed only four hits to be hit out of the 18 he threw of them fair. He struck out seven, and was responsible for the only three men to reach base, two of them walked. The good and bad round when the Tiger pitcher threw wild on a bunt, but he preserved the shutout by getting the next three batters in routine fashion.

As it stood on the big day, the Princetonian also dug well at the plate, drawing a walk and then hitting a lead off double in the first, fourth and sixth. Two in the first and single tallies in the sixth and eighth eliminated all pressure that a close game adds, allowing him to concentrate on the goal of a possible place in baseball's no-hit hell of fame.

A combination of good pitching and good fortune brought Douglas through the unimportant ninth inning. The leadoff batter hammered a low line drive at third baseman Bob Myliss, which the Tiger infielder caught more or less singlehanded. A swinging bunt could have ended the dream, but catcher Elmer Naples pounced on it to get the runner at first. Another clever tough play—a slow roller just beyond the pitcher's mound—could only have gone for a hit had the third batter in the inning not driven out someone shortstop Jim Whiting. House made the play like a veteran and the team swarmed all over Douglas with backslapping congratulations. Among the handshakers were several from Manhattan players.

The no-hitter was the first for a Princeton pitcher since Harry Brightman blanked Fordham, 5-0, in May of 1952 and only the third in the last quarter century. For Dave Douglas, there will always be the memory that on April 21, 1968, he pitched to perfection.

THIS TRACKMAN BOW

For New Brunswick in Opener, Princeton High School's track team lost its opening meet of the season, 77-40, to New Brunswick and Princeton, New Jersey, and probably Harvard loom as more than that the Tigers can handle.

The golf team topped Harvard and Brown, 189-186, in identical scores of 6-1, and have another triangular match on tap Saturday. It will be played at 1:30 on the Springfield course, against Army and Georgetown.

MEN'S SOFTBALL SET

Play to Begin Tuesday. An eight-team Men's Softball League will begin its 1968 schedule Tuesday, playing twice a week until August 29. Playoffs under the Shaughnessy system will then be held.

Entries and their managers are the Italian-American Sportmen's Club, Libby Finelli; Leo's Rural Service, Italo Fredai; Circle Eso, Tom Procaccino; Samine, A.C.; Peter Santangelo, Inc.; Leo's, Andy Teague; Walker-Gordon; Mike Donahue; International Chemical Workers Union, Frank Tuffano; and Belle Mead, Ed Poulin.

Baldur De Vido will serve as league president, with Jim Horgan as commissioner. A three-man protest board, composed of Horgan, Peter Mack and Bill Guina, has been named to consider disputes that arise. All games will be played on fields in the vicinity of Baker Rink which

High School Wednesday on the visitors' home field. Ahead for coach Win Niles' Little Tigers lie the Penn Relays Friday and Saturday and a dual meet against Steinert on Monday at Harris Field.

By each, Niles was undismayed by his defeat, pronouncing that his team performed much better this time than last year against New Brunswick, which practices throughout the winter on an indoor track. "We were all right at 16-18 in the quarter mile and that was the meet," Niles said. "But a lot of boys looked good and should improve before our next meet," he predicted.

The only dual winner for the Blue & White was co-captain Lamont Fletcher, who took first in the 120-yard high hurdles with a 15.3, and whose 20.2 was good for first in the 180-yard low hurdles. Eddie Applequist, the team's other co-captain, won the shot put with a toss of 47'10". Sharing a three-way tie for first place of 6'0" were in the high jump was sophomore Richard Beddow, who, as Coach Dick Wood, in charge of the jumping events, pointed out, is progressing good for a boy only 5'6" 6 inches tall.

The Little Tigers swept the javelin, Joe Beachell coming up with a winning throw of 172 feet 6 inches. Playing behind were Ben Collins, second; John Eversen, third; Jack Copeland, fourth; and Sam Spangenberg, fifth. MIDGET LEAGUE REGIONS Fund Drive Set For Saturday. Managers, coaches and more than 200 players took the field last week as they began practice sessions for the 1960 YMCA Midget Football League. Openings are set for Monday; the league will play three games nightly, from 6 to 8 on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings until early June.

Players, under the supervision of their managers and fathers will conduct a Booster Sale from 9:30 until noon on Saturday. The revenue will be used to buy booster tickets throughout the community. The money will be used to help pay for uniforms and set up a fund for future uniform replacements.

This will be the first time, reported Commissioner B. E. Bergesen, Jr., that the entire league will be represented in one place to buy uniforms. Another change which will help strengthen the league will be the inauguration of the pre-league training program he noted.

The new program, set up by a ruling of the baseball Committee, provides for the first year of the league's development a nine-year old ballplayers. It will make possible smaller major league squads with better opportunity for coaching and playing, as well as better future seasons since boys will join the majors as one-year "veterans."

TIGERS WIN ANOTHER
As Runa Mount Up, in another undecided contest at University Field, Princeton's baseball team (8-3) beat another opponent into submission Tuesday. The Tigers, in a 13-2 margin, Villanova came into the contest with a fine 8-1 mark.

So home runs by sophomore Mike Devereaux and senior Ken Marzetti and a home run triple by Captain Mike Ippolito dominated the Tigers' extra-base barrage. Devereaux's first-inning blow cleared the right field fence at 300 feet from the plate while Marzetti's was something of a gift as the centerfielder misplayed his line drive into an inside-the-park round tripper.

Three Villanova pitchers were unusually generous with bases on balls, issuing a total of 11. That, combined with 11 timely hits, allowed Princeton to score in each of the first five innings, after which the Tigers understandably started pulling away. Single runs in the first three rounds were followed by a pair in the fourth and six in the fifth, when a dozen men went to the plate. Princeton scored 10 more, collected two hits in this round but took advantage of seven walks and a wild pitch. Dave Douglas, the Princeton pitcher, going the distance to save his record to 4 and 2 as he scattered seven hits and fanned eight.
